Writing

(30 minutes)

Directions: Suppose you have read a book recently and intend to recommend it to other members of your book club via an online forum. Briefly introduce the book and explain why it is worth reading. You will have 30 minutes for this task and should write at least 120 words but no more than 180 words.

Dear Club Members,

I wanted to recommend a book that I recently read and thoroughly enjoyed. The book is called The Nightingale by Kristin Hannah.

Set during World War II, the story follows two sisters living in France who are forced to make difficult choices and sacrifices as they try to survive and resist the Nazi occupation. The book is a fascinating and emotional journey that explores the themes of love, courage, and resilience in the face of adversity/difficulties/challenges.

Hannah's writing is both beautiful and powerful, and she has created complex characters that will stay with you long after you finish reading. The book has been a best-seller for good reason, and I believe it would be a great addition to our club's reading list.

I highly recommend The Nightingale to anyone who enjoys historical fiction or stories of strong women overcoming challenges. I think it would make for a great discussion/debate at our next sharing meeting.

Sincerely,

Li Mei

亲爱的俱乐部成员们：

我想向大家推荐一本我最近读过并且非常喜欢的书。这本书叫做《夜莺》（The Nightingale），作者是克里斯汀·汉娜（Kristin Hannah）。

这个故事发生在二战期间，讲述了两个住在法国的姐妹在纳粹占领下不得不做出艰难的选择和牺牲以求生存和抵抗的故事。这本书是一场引人入胜、感人至深的旅程，探讨了爱、勇气和在逆境中坚韧不拔的主题。

汉娜的作品语言优美且充满力量，她创造了复杂的人物，这些人物在你读完后会一直留在你的心中。

这本书成为畅销书的原因是很有道理的，我相信它会是我们俱乐部读书清单中的绝佳选择。

我强烈推荐《夜莺》给那些喜欢历史小说或坚强女性克服挑战的故事的人。我认为它会是下次分

享会上的一个很好的讨论话题。

Listening Comprehension

(25 minutes)

Section A

Directions: In this section, you will hear three news reports. At the end of each news report, you will hear two or three questions. Both the news report and the questions will be spoken only once. After you hear a question, you must choose the best answer from the four choices marked A), B), C) and D). Then mark the corresponding letter on Answer Sheet 1 with a single line through the centre.

Questions 1 and 2 are based on the news report you have just heard.

1. A) A proposed policy allowing Africans to travel in Africa without a visa.

B) An agreement among 13 African countries to set up a free-trade zone.

C) A plan to invite all African countries to join the African Union.

D) An important initiative to permit tourists to visit Africa without a visa.

2. A) It will attract more investments from all over the world.

B) It will help many African countries reduce trade deficits.

C) It will reduce the cost of trade between African countries.

D) It will allow Africans to play a bigger role in world trade.

Listen

1) African leaders plan to turn the continent into a continent without borders. They will introduce a single passport allowing free movement between countries. The idea from the African Union has been modelled on the EU Schengen free movement deal. Europe has abolished many internal borders. This enables visa-free movement across the continent. Currently, 13 African countries have visa-free deals in place with each other. These allow citizens to visit another country without a visa. Some countries offer visas on arrival. In contrast, Americans are able to travel to 20 of the continent's countries without a visa, or a secure visa on arrival. The African Union, which represents 54 states, wants to abolish the requirement of a visa for Africans visiting other African countries. 2) It also wants to establish a free trade deal across the continent in the near future, as trade within the African continent costs more than any other region.

Questions 1 and 2 are based on the news report you have just heard.

1. What is the news report mainly about?

2. What benefit will a free trade deal bring to African economy?

Questions 3 and 4 are based on the news report you have just heard.

3. A) Cooling down volcanic rock with sea water.
B) Storing carbon dioxide underground as a gas.
C) Capturing carbon dioxide and burying it under the sea.
D) Pumping carbon dioxide underground to form stone.
4. A) Lack of burying ground.
B) Long time for processing.
C) High consumption of water.
D) Enormous cost of energy.

Listen

3) Researchers in Iceland found a new way of tackling climate change by pumping carbon dioxide underground and turning it into stone. Other carbon capture and storage methods store carbon dioxide as a gas, but problems include a high cost and concern about leaks. "This new method of burying carbon dioxide and turning it into stone is cheaper and more secure," The guardian reports. To turn carbon dioxide into stone, researchers with the Carbfix project pumped the gas into volcanic rock and sped up the natural process in which the volcanic rock reacts with gas and forms carbon minerals. The gas turned into solid in just two years – much faster than the hundreds or thousands of years researchers had predicted. The research took place at Iceland's Hellisheidi power plant. Already, the project in Iceland has been increased in scale to bury 10,000 tons of carbon dioxide each year. 4) One potential difficulty is that for each ton of carbon dioxide buried, the technique requires 25 tons of water. However, the lead researcher said seawater could be used.

Questions 3 and 4 are based on the news report you have just heard.

3. What new method has been developed to help fight climate change?
4. What is a potential difficulty in applying the new technique?

Questions 5 to 7 are based on the news report you have just heard.

5. A) It varies with the seasons.
B) It has been on the decline.
C) It has caused nationwide concern.
D) It is ninety grams daily on average.
6. A) They emphasize food variety.
B) They prefer French stick loaves.
C) They do more cooking than men.
D) They favor diets lower in calories.
7. A) They bake more bread at home.
B) They spend less time eating breakfast.
C) They eat more fruit than they used to.

D) They put jam instead of butter on bread.

Listen

People in France are keeping away from the narrow French stick loaf in favor of healthier, cheaper options, a Millers Association has said. 5) The National Association of French Millers says bread consumption is on the decline, with French people eating 9 grams less than in the previous year. The association is concerned about the effects this trend will have on their trade, and suggested three reasons why it is happening. 6) Firstly, the association cited changing diets, in particular the switch to those low in calories as a factor in the reduction of bread consumption. This could explain why the difference in consumption between genders is so big. Nowadays, men eat an approximate average of 140 grams of bread daily, whereas women eat 80 to 90 grams. 7) The second reason, they say, is lifestyle changes in the country, with people dedicating less time to breakfast when bread would traditionally be eaten with butter and jam. Finally, the rising cost of bread is considered to be a factor, with the price of a French stick loaf increasing by nearly 25% in the last 10 years.

Questions 5 to 7 are based on the news report you have just heard.

5. What does the news report say about French people's bread consumption?

6. What do we learn about French women from the report?

7. What is said about lifestyle changes of the French people?

Section B

Directions: In this section, you will hear two long conversations. At the end of each conversation, you will hear four questions. Both the conversation and the questions will be spoken only once. After you hear a question, you must choose the best answer from the four choices marked A), B), C) and D). Then mark the corresponding letter on Answer Sheet 1 with a single line through the centre.

Questions 8 to 11 are based on the conversation you have just heard.

8. A) After the rush hour.

B) Early in the morning.

C) As soon as possible.

D) Around lunch time.

9. A) Two first class seats.

B) Two seats together.

C) One window seat.

D) One seat near the exit.

10. A) In the middle of the platform.

B) At the far end of the platform.

C) Behind the yellow line.

D) In the waiting room.

11. A) Wait in a queue for his turn.
B) Go to the baggage claim area.
C) Pay an extra fee for the service.
D) Give the ticket to the train guard.

Listen

W: Next, please.

M: Yes, I'd like to book two train tickets to London tomorrow morning, please.

W: Okay. What time would you like to go?

M: Well, after the rush hour, I think. We'd like to avoid the crowds if possible. So probably sometime around 10 o'clock.

W: No problem. Just give me a minute. There's one here at 09:47, then one at 10:12 and then a third at 10:26.

M: 8) The one at 12 minutes past 10 sounds good.

W: All right. Would you like to sit in first or second class?

M: Second class is fine. Thanks. 9) Is there any chance we could have a window seat for one of those?

W: No problem. And I've booked those seats next to each other for you. The total price is £36 £50. Is there anything else?

M: Yes, actually, we'll be taking our bicycles with us. What is the arrangement for that and will it cost extra?

W: It's no extra cost. The price will be the same. 10) All you need to do is wait at the far end of the platform. When the train arrives, tell the train guard where you're going and he will help you secure the bicycles in the last carriage and give you a ticket. Then you can walk down through the train to your carriage and take your seats.

11) When you arrive in London, hand the ticket to the guard and he will return the bicycles to you.

M: Thank you for the information. That's very helpful.

Questions 8 to 11 are based on the conversation you have just heard.

8. When would the man like to leave for London?
9. What is the man's other request?
10. Where should the man wait for the train?
11. What should the man do to collect the bicycles?

Questions 12 to 15 are based on the conversation you have just heard.

12. A) Almost all of them were operating at a deficit.
B) They have all been turned into movie theatres.
C) Nearly all of them closed down decades ago.
D) They have adapted to meet fashion changes.

13. A) It shows foreign movies exclusively.
B) It shows movies from the 1950s.
C) It is the oldest theatre in London.

- D) It is located next to a hat factory.
14. A) They wear hats on social occasions.
B) They don't speak foreign languages.
C) They enjoy watching foreign movies.
D) They don't go to movie theatres often.
15. A) They are meant mostly for immigrants.
B) They attract large crowds of young Londoners.
C) They are hard for English people to appreciate.
D) They have an English translation on the screen.

Listen

M: Good morning. Our guest today is Karen Brook. Karen is the managing director of Cube Movie Theater located on Underhill Road. Thank you for coming, Karen.

W: Thank you for having me.

M: So tell us about your cinema, Cube Movie Theater.

W: Sure. Cube Movie Theater has been around now for 11 years. It's located in what used to be a hat factory.

M: Oh, really?

W: Yeah. There used to be many hat factories in Britain until around the 1950s. 12) But fashion changed and most people stopped wearing hats. So practically all of those factories had to close down. This one in particular was closed for 47 years before we transformed it into a movie theater.

M: I see. I hear there's something else that makes your theater special. What is it that sets you apart from other theaters?

W: 13) We are the only movie theater in the whole country that only shows foreign movies.

M: Is there enough demand for that? 14) I would have thought that in London, most people don't speak foreign languages.

W: Sure. There's enough demand. The fact that we have been open and in business for all these years proves it. London is a very large and international city. There are lots of people interested in watching such movies. 15) Furthermore, I might add, all movies come with English text at the bottom of the screen. So even if you don't understand what the actors say, you can still read it.

M: Of course. What movie are you showing right now?

W: This week we're showing a musical from Pakistan. It's very popular.

Questions 12 to 15 are based on the conversation you have just heard.

12. What do we learn about hat factories in Britain?

13. What is special about Cube Movie Theater?

14. What does the man say about most people in London?

15. What does the woman say about foreign movies shown in London?

Section C

Directions: In this section, you will hear three passages. At the end of each passage, you will hear three or four questions. Both the passage and the questions will be spoken only once. After you hear a question, you must choose the best answer from the four choices marked A), B), C) and D). Then mark the corresponding letter on Answer Sheet 1 with a single line through the centre.

Questions 16 to 18 are based on the passage you have just heard.

16. A) She doesn't think smartphones can replace tablets.

B) She incorporates smartphones into her teaching.

C) She cannot stop children using smartphones.

D) She regards smartphones as a distraction.

17. A) To enforce school discipline.

B) To make students concentrate.

C) To help children grow up to be professionals.

D) To cultivate children's good study habits.

18. A) Use books and pens only.

B) Cut down their screen time.

C) Make full use of electronic devices.

D) Learn to use the internet for research.

Listen

Love them or hate them, smartphones have become an integral part of our daily lives. But should they be left outside the classroom?

Nick Gibb, the minister for school standards in England, believes schools should ban their pupils from bringing in smartphones. 16) Astrid Natley, a secondary school math teacher incorporates phones into her classroom. "My school doesn't have money for tablets," she says. "When students use their phones for research, they learn they have a powerful tool in their hands. If we stop children using phones, we're rejecting something they care about."

Meanwhile, Helen Lockhart, a registered nurse working for community education supports a complete ban. "I'm banned from mobile use at work, and my phone must be handed in. 17) If I'm caught with it in my pocket, I will be subject to disciplinary procedure which will impact on my career. We need to teach children how to behave like the professionals they're striving to become."

Richard Stone, an English teacher, thinks there should be a clear separation between school and home. 18) Students should do things differently in the two environments. "Children are getting more than enough screen time in their lives without the need to bring their phone into the classroom. The internet is too easy and too unreliable a research tool, so let's leave phones and laptops at home, 18) and show them a different world in their lessons – one of books and pens,” he says.

Questions 16 to 18 are based on the passage you have just heard.

16. What do we learn about Astrid Natley, a secondary school math teacher?

17. Why does Helen Lockhart, a registered nurse support a complete ban on smartphone use in the classroom?

18. What should students do in the classroom, according to Richard Stone, an English teacher?

Questions 19 to 21 are based on the passage you have just heard.

19. A) By cleaning the kitchen floor.

B) By looking after her baby brother.

C) By helping her mother do the dishes.

D) By helping her brother wash windows.

20. A) She ordered a large number of dolls.

B) She checked if a purple doll was ordered.

C) She mistakenly canceled her mom's order.

D) She ordered a more expensive doll instead.

21. A) They asked the children's hospital to pick them.

B) They took all of them to the children's hospital.

C) They opened all of them one by one.

D) They discussed where to keep them.

Listen

19) Kate, a 6-year-old girl, helped her brother wash windows to get a reward promised by her mother – a purple doll that she wanted. She watched her mother order the doll online. The next day, Kate asked if she could check the shipping status, so her mom clicked on the webpage and then walked out of the room. 20) Kate saw that her doll would be arriving the next afternoon, but then she noticed something else – suggestions about other dolls and toys she could order. 15 minutes and a few clicks later, with more than $350 worth of dolls in her cart, Kate placed the order and ran off to play. The next day while checking on another online order, her mother noticed the long list of dolls on the way. She was able to cancel two of them, but it was too late to cancel the rest. She told her daughter that they were going to be returned. When the packages arrived, Kate wanted to open them, but her parents said no. 21) Instead of sending back the dolls, her father suggested giving them to the local children's hospital. So the next week, Kate's family loaded up their car and took all the dolls to the playroom at the children's hospital. Kate was depressed at first, but then she sat with some girl-patients and they opened up all the boxes together laughing and playing. She had a lot of fun and learned a really good lesson.

Questions 19 to 21 are based on the passage you have just heard.

19. How did Kate earn the reward from her mother?

20. What did Kate do after her mother left the room?

21. What did Kate's family do after the packages arrived?

Questions 22 to 25 are based on the passage you have just heard.

22. A) The time one starts school.

B) The classroom atmosphere.

C) The school that one attends.

D) The relationship with classmates.

23. A) To help parents decide when to send their children to school.

B) To find causes for differences in the participants' performance.

C) To identify students having potential to be professional athletes.

D) To offer constructive suggestions for making educational policies.

24. A) Political leaders.

B) Financial analysts.

C) Professional athletes.

D) High-school students.

25. A) Leadership ability.

B) Commitment to work.

C) Risk-taking.

D) Self-confidence.

Listen

Can the date you were born affect how successful your life is? 22) According to recent research done in Australia, the answer is yes. The researchers found that the time when a person starts school has an enduring impact on their lives. Those who are relatively old compared to their classmates have certain advantages over them. Previous research has found older students achieve better results. They are also more likely to attend university and become professional athletes, chief executives and even important politicians. 23) But the Australian researchers wanted to discover what was driving these differences. They suspected older, more mature students obtained more self-confidence than their peers, because they achieved better grades. To test this out, they conducted two studies. One was with high school students and the other with more than 1,000 Australian adults age between 24 and 60 years old. 24) In the first study, more than 600 high school students were surveyed about their tendency to take risks and feel confident. In the second study, those born on both sides of the cut-off date for starting school were asked to complete online math questions and rate their performance. They were also asked about the risks they took while riding bicycles and managing their finances. 25) The researchers found that older students displayed greater risk-taking tendencies while risk-taking can be considered a negative attribute. It's also a characteristic of successful people, including athletes, political leaders and entrepreneurs.

Questions 22 to 25 are based on the passage you have just heard.

22. According to recent research conducted in Australia, what has a lasting impact on one's life?

23. What was the purpose of the Australian research?

24. Who were the participants in the researchers' first study?
25. According to the researchers, what is one characteristic of successful people?

Reading Comprehension

(40 minutes)

Section A

Directions: In this section, there is a passage with ten blanks. You are required to select one word for each blank from a list of choices given in a word bank following the passage. Read the passage through carefully before making your choices. Each choice in the bank is identified by a letter. Please mark the corresponding letter for each item on Answer Sheet 2 with a single line through the centre. You may not use any of the words in the bank more than once.

It's a fantasy that goes back centuries: a message in a bottle, carried ashore from far-off lands. Authors, artists and children 26 have dreamed of such a gift from the sea.

This time, though, it's not a bottle that washes ashore. It's eggs – thousands of little toy eggs.

That's what happened on the German island of Langeoog this week.

Lying just off the North Sea coast, it found itself 27 by an invasion of colored plastic eggs – much to the 28 of local children, because the eggs contained toys.

Police 29 the eggs came from a freighter that lost part of its cargo during an unusually 30 storm, the worst to hit Germany's northeastern coast since 2006.

At any rate, what was lost now has been found, by many of the community's littlest residents.

"The surprise eggs have found their way to freedom," said Mayor Uwe Garrel. However, the joy of the moment 31 off soon.

"At first I thought this was a wonder, because everything was so 32, but then we realized that this is a huge 33 in the end," said the mayor. He also noted the plastic bags and other materials that have washed ashore on the island can cause serious problems for 34.

Still, all these little eggs contained an extra treat with their toys. They 35 notes from afar.

There was just one problem for the German children who received them: They were written in Russian.

A) wore	F) quantity	K) effective
B) wildlife	G) overthrown	L) delight
C) suspect	H) mess	M) colorful
D) struck	I) intense	N) bore
E) similar	J) human	O) alike

Section B

Directions: In this section, you are going to read a passage with ten statements attached to it. Each statement contains information given in one of the paragraphs. Identify the paragraph from which the information is derived. You may choose a paragraph more than once. Each paragraph is marked with a letter. Answer the questions by marking the corresponding letter on Answer Sheet 2.

Hyphenating your last name after marriage?

- A) Congratulations on deciding to get married! While being married is great and wonderful, the act of getting married can be quite stressful. There is the planning of the ceremony itself, the merging (合并) of two households and all of the details involved in that. You also have to take the time to apply for your marriage license and then decide whether or not you are going to keep your last name or change it.
- B) This is where a lot of people have trouble. Once upon a time, it was just customary for a bride to take her groom's last name as her own and abandon her maiden name completely. The act of keeping her own last name was considered taboo (禁忌) and people's eyebrows would raise right off their faces when they found out that the bride was even considering something so radical. Over time, though, more and more women are deciding to keep their last names.
- C) There are a lot of reasons to want to keep your own last name. Hopefully you have a supportive groom who understands why this idea is the most appealing to you. A lot of times, though, the act of keeping your name is still something that causes concern. Even if your groom is fine with it, his family (or your own) might not be so understanding.
- D) There are a couple of ways to compromise on the issue. You could choose an entirely new last name for the two of you to share. This way neither of you gets "your" way and you both have to deal with the legalities of going through a name change. Most of the time, though, the most popular compromise is to hyphenate your last name and the last name of your groom. For example, if your groom's name is John Smith and your name is Kate Jones. You would name yourself Kate Jones-Smith or Kate Smith-Jones. This allows you to keep going by your own last name while legally adopting your husband's last name at the same time.
- E) The compromise is the biggest reason that so many women choose to hyphenate their last names. It is a way of you keeping your own identity while also making your future husband happy. It allows you to stay connected to accomplishments that you achieved before you got married. For example, many women who choose to hyphenate do so partially because they have earned higher educational degrees and certifications under their maiden names. They might have also had things published or publicized and want to stay connected to that identity. Hyphenating your last name can help you bridge the gap between your personal and professional lives. Many women who opt to simply keep their own names do so because they don't want to give up all that they have accomplished professionally. Adopting their husband's last name makes it hard for them to claim ownership of these accomplishments personally because they happened under their "other" name.

- F) While tradition is one thing, there isn't any logical reason to completely change your name. Keeping your name and joining it to your husband's through hyphenation is as legal as simply adopting his name or as simply keeping your own and leaving his out of the picture entirely.
 - G) Probably the most important reason to consider hyphenation is your identity. You've spent your whole life building your identity under a certain name. Obviously you will still be you even if you've taken on your husband's last name and omitted yours entirely. At the same time, your name is associated with the identity you've built up and hyphenation allows you to respect that while also respecting tradition and your husband's family's identity.
 - H) If you care about outside opinions on your name, you should know that a large portion of today's society is annoyed by the hyphenated name. Some people find it "snobby" (势利的) and others simply find it irritating because they have a hard time remembering which last name they are supposed to say first. Some people even believe that not simply adopting your husband's last name is a huge sign of disrespect and a lack of commitment.
 - I) It is possible that your future husband will find this choice offensive. Some men, regardless of how you might feel about some things, are traditionalists and feel that it is simply "right" for the woman to take the man's last name as her own. Whether your future husband insisting on your adopting his last name is a red flag to you or not, it is still something that you should take into consideration.
 - J) There are all sorts of reasons to hyphenate your name or not to hyphenate your name. The basis for each of these things, however, is whether or not you are willing to make a compromise when it comes to changing your name. The hyphenation is the epitome (体现) of a compromise. One spouse wants a complete name change. The other spouse wants no name change. Hyphenating the two names is a way for each person to, at least a little bit, "win" the argument.
 - K) And don't forget the legal stuff! Making the decision is just part of the process. From there you are going to have to legally change your name all over the place. You'll need to change your name at the bank, with social security, with your credit cards, on your driver's license, at the gym ... everywhere. It's easy to get overwhelmed just thinking about it.
 - L) What matters, of course, is that the two of you are going to be happily married – hopefully for the of your lives. At the end of the day, whether you each keep your names, whether you come up with an entirely new name for the two of you to share or whether you hyphenate your current last names, what matters is that you love each other and are going to be joining your lives together. Try to remember that as you are staring at the application for your marriage license and filling out the portion that reads "name after you get married" (or whatever the legalese for that might be).
36. Many people today still find name hyphenation upon marriage unacceptable.

37. As a compromise, a bride will in most cases adopt a name that combines the couple's last names.
38. The bride should consider adopting her groom's last name whether he feels strongly about it or not.
39. Making preparations for marriage causes a lot of stress.
40. Hyphenating the last names could be a win-win solution should arguments arise about what name to adopt upon marriage.
41. It used to be considered socially unacceptable for a bride to retain her maiden name.
42. The bride who adopts a hyphenated last name after marriage can maintain connections with their past achievements.
43. Hyphenating names allows the bride to preserve her own identity while respecting tradition.
44. No matter what name the bride adopts, it is most important that the newly-weds truly love each other.
45. Legally speaking, the bride is free to choose whatever name she prefers.

Section C

Directions: There are 2 passages in this section. Each passage is followed by some questions or unfinished statements. For each of them there are four choices marked A), B), C) and D). You should decide on the best choice and mark the corresponding letter on Answer Sheet 2 with a single line through the centre.

Passage One

Questions 46 to 50 are based on the following passage.

It's good to be smart. After all, intelligent people earn more money, accumulate more wealth, and even live longer. But there's another side to the story. The brightest people and strongest leaders sometimes make errors others don't, especially in situations that require common sense.

Travis Bradberry, president at TalentSmart, explained Bradberry in his post Why Smart People Act so Stupid that "rational thinking and intelligence don't tend to go hand in hand". Intelligent people are more prone to silly mistakes because of blind spots in how they use logic. These blind spots exist because smart people tend to be overconfident in their reasoning abilities. "They're so used to being right and having quick answers that they don't even realise when they're making a mess by answering without thinking things through."

A lifetime of praise leads smart people to develop too much faith in their intelligence and abilities. They often fail to recognise when they need help, and when they do recognise it, they tend to believe that no one else is capable of providing it."

"It's hard for anyone to graciously accept the fact that they're wrong. It's even harder for smart people because they grow so used to being right all the time that it becomes a part of their identity," Bradberry wrote. "For smart people, being wrong can feel like a personal attack, and being right, a necessity."

Smart people also have a hard time accepting feedback. They tend to undervalue the opinions of others, which means they have trouble believing that anyone is qualified to give them useful feedback. Not only does this tendency hinder their growth and performance, it can lead to harmful relationships, both personally and professionally.

Smart people develop overachieving personalities because things come so easily to them. They simply don't understand how hard some people have to work to accomplish the same things, and because of that, they push people too hard. They set the bar too high, and when people take too long or don't get things quite right, they assume it's due to a lack of effort. So they push even harder.

46. What do we learn from the passage about the brightest people?

A) They can make silly mistakes in straightforward situations.

B) They usually turn a blind eye to their own weaknesses.

C) They are admired by people around them.

D) They can differ in their personalities.

47. What accounts for the existence of intelligent people's logical blind spots?

A) Their irrational way of thinking.

B) Too much faith in their ability to think.

C) Their ignorance of behavioural science.

D) Too much concern about their work.

48. How do smart people react when they are found to be wrong?

A) They shift the blame to others.

B) They graciously accept the facts.

C) They may feel shocked.

D) They may get offended.

Passage Two

Questions 51 to 55 are based on the following passage.

Of the endless troubles that come with being driven from one's home country, losing educational certificates may seem small. But it isn't. Refugees who settle in other countries often find themselves unable to continue on their previous career path due to a new set of employer standards or skills requirements. To solve this problem, the U.S. State Department is posing a solution: online learning.

The State Department will announce a partnership with an online education platform called Coursera. The platform will allow refugees worldwide to take thousands of online courses for free. "Coursera for Refugees" will be available for any non-profit group that supports refugees in any country, as well as individual refugees. They can apply for fully funded access to Coursera's course catalog, which means they can take all of the platform's classes and obtain professional certificates for free. The platform currently offers professor-led lectures on a broad range of topics, from data science to fashion design.

As the world migrant crisis intensifies, employment is becoming a global concern. The new program aims to aid refugees by offering "important skills that will help them in the global economy," Evan Ryan, U.S. assistant secretary of state for educational and cultural affairs, said on a press call last week. "What we don't want to do is not act," added Coursera chief operations officer Lila Ibrahim.

The idea isn't without its kinks. For one, starting on a new career path is not as simple as watching a few videos and obtaining an online certificate; even those looking to continue previous careers can't simply rely on an online lecture to get them up-to-date on standards, policies, and practices. For another, most of the classes on Coursera are in English, and though there are plans to add translations, language barriers can be a big obstacle. Then there are the questions over the value of massive open online courses (MOOCs) themselves – both for refugees and for average learners.

But it's still early days and there are signs of hope. In 2015, a joint study found 72% of people taking MOOCs saw career benefits afterward.

51. Why is the U.S. State Department launching an online learning program for refugees?

- A) To enable them to settle down in host countries.
- B) To allow them to learn as many job skills as possible.
- C) To offer them a platform to pursue advanced degrees.
- D) To help them to meet new employment standards.

52. What do we know about "Coursera for Refugees"?

- A) It provides refugees with a wide range of courses free of charge.
- B) It offers free online data services for refugees around the world.
- C) It allows refugees to obtain degrees in various academic fields.
- D) It supplies refugees with a great variety of job opportunities.

53. What does the passage say is a consequence of the global migrant crisis?

- A) Instability increases in host countries.
- B) The global economic crisis intensifies.
- C) A lot more refugees die during migration.
- D) Refugees find it more difficult to get a job.

54. What does the author say causes refugees' difficulty in taking online courses?

- A) Cultural environment.
- B) Changed academic requirements.

C) Lack of language skills.

D) Difference in teaching platforms.

55. What did the joint study find about the MOOCs several years ago?

A) They helped solve learners' financial problems.

B) They benefited most of the learners.

C) They changed some learners' career path.

D) They provided the most needed vocational skills.
